

$17.90

To repeat that poor clothing is poor economy in the cold weather is an old tale, yet daily one sees men and women who have not yet learned their lesson. Illness that keeps one from work weeks or months would be prevented at all costs if people but realized that it is the inevitable result of careless clothing. So, if you did not buy your suit or overcoat while the mild weather held, be sure that you do so now. To aid you in this endeavor comes the invitation to visit our store or take a look into our window while passing by. For the next week, commencing Monday at noon and ending Saturday, Jan. 24, we will place on sale a certain amount of suits and overcoats which are $22.50 and $25 values for $17.90. You will find the original price on each and every garment, in plain figures. We are putting all of these suits and overcoats in at the one price, $17.90.

WATERBURY

Miss Mabel E. Johns the Bride of Harry F. Harvey Saturday.

At 7:30 Saturday morning the marriage of Harry F. Harvey and Miss Mabel E. Johns was solemnized in the chapel of St. Andrew's rectory by Rev. D. E. Coffey, the rector, assisted by Rev. R. J. Cahill, D. D., of Montpelier. The chapel altar was decorated with roses and carnations, the whole setting being very pretty for the quiet wedding. Only the relatives and a few intimate friends were present. The bride was gowned in gray messaline and carried a prayer book. Miss Alice Healey, a teacher in the Barre schools, was bridesmaid and wore green messaline. The best man was J. M. Healey of the Argus office, Montpelier. The ceremony was accompanied by a nuptial mass. The groom is the oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. David T. Harvey; is extensively engaged in lumber operations; has served acceptably as road commissioner of the town and is a very popular young man. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Russell Johns of Huntington. She is a graduate of the Edmunds high school of Burlington and for some time was the very capable teacher in the Little River school. Mr. and Mrs. Harvey left on the noon train for New Haven, Conn., but will make their home here.

A number from here attended the boys' conference in Montpelier. Among those attending were Leonard Snow for the South Duxbury church, Harry Irish for Dillingham grange, Rev. W. I. Boisourt, William Ferris, Jr., and Paul Swasey, Burton Luce, Frank Chesley and Don Groat for the boy scouts.

Franklin Cooley is ill with German measles.

The junior league enjoyed a sleighride around Little River Saturday.

The campfire girls of the Methodist Episcopal church gave an entertainment in assembly hall Friday evening which was well patronized. The numbers were as follows: "The Campfire Girls' Walking Song"; greeting, Dorothy Grow; "Mother Goose in Pantomime"; legend by Lou Wit, by Pauline Moody; campfire girls' play, "Every Girl," tableaux by the campfire girls. Refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Berry went to Waitsfield yesterday to attend the funeral of Mr. Berry's uncle, George Berry, soap.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Campbell were in Randolph last week to attend the funeral of Mr. Campbell's uncle, Mr. Thurston. Mrs. Campbell remained for a few days with relatives.

Physical Geography.

The following answer was recently given in a geography examination in reply to the question, "From what direction do most of our rains come?"

Most of our rains come straight down, but some of them come sideways.

Diseases of Children

I find that worms is one of the most common of children's diseases—either pinworms or stomach worms.

These parasites attack the stomach and bowels and make their presence felt through deranged stomach, swollen upper lip, sour stomach, offensive breath, hard and full belly, pale face of leadish tint, eyes Trade Mark heavy and dull, twitching eyelids, short dry cough, grinding of the teeth, little red points sticking out on tongue, starting during sleep, slow fever.

For over 50 years, Dr. True's Elixir, my father's discovery, has been the standard remedy for worms and stomach disorders. No chances, but use the time-tried remedy—Dr. True's Elixir, the family laxative and worm expeller. At all dealers', 35c, 20c and $1.00. Advice free. Write.

He Wanted His Adversary's Ears

By MARK HATHAWAY

At a table d'hote in Berlin a party of Americans sat dining and chatting with each other in their native language. The party consisted of a father, mother, a daughter nineteen years old and a young man, also an American, whose method of speaking indicated that he was a southerner. Opposite these persons sat a couple of young men in the uniform of the German army. Hearing those opposite them conversing in English, but not being sure that none of them spoke German, they refrained for a time from saying anything that they would not like to have overheard.

But finally the younger of the two remarked to his friend in a low tone that the young lady opposite was very pretty. The other cautioned him to say nothing about the party in their hearing, but without effect. The young man made several remarks that were complimentary with a view to testing the Americans' comprehension of the German language, and when he discovered that they paid no attention to him he gathered confidence and criticized them unmercifully.

It happened that the young man sitting beside the young lady was a student at a German university. His name was Thibadeaux and his home was New Orleans. He was a member of a dueling corps and at the time its champion. He spoke German fluently, and though he pretended not to understand what the pair were saying, he took in every word. While chatting with his young lady companion the question arose as to the date of the blowing up of the tower of the castle of Heidelberg. Thibadeaux said that he would ask one of the officers opposite. Then he said in German to the younger of the two:

"Herr, I have heard your remarks about our party and especially the young lady on my right. Kindly tell me where a friend of mine will find you after dinner."

The man addressed saw from the young lady's—Miss Archard's—action that she was ignorant of what was being said, and though he colored slightly, did not give the matter away.

He could only give the address required and his name, which was Von Wragler.

"What does he say?" asked Miss Archard.

"He says he doesn't know."

After dinner Thibadeaux left the others to smoke, but more especially to find a fellow student named Reinhardt.

Reinhardt, who acted for Thibadeaux in the affair, said nothing as to his principal being a student in Germany, a member of a corps or a champion with the small sword. A meeting was arranged in a wood near the city, where a number of duels had been fought, for the next morning at 6 o'clock.

Thibadeaux, having smoked his cigar, returned to Miss Archard and spent the rest of the evening with her. But by 10 o'clock she gave a slight yawn, which she hastened to cover with her handkerchief, and her visitor soon bade her good evening without giving the slightest hint that in the morning he would risk his life in her behalf. Indeed, he was not sorry to depart, for he knew Reinhardt was waiting for him to give him the final details for the meeting. These having been transmitted and approved, Thibadeaux went to bed. Reinhardt was to call for him the next morning at 4.

Long before daylight the second burst into the room and stood over Thibadeaux's bed.

"Is it 4 o'clock?" asked the latter, trying to rouse himself.

"No; it is but 3."

"Then why do you awaken me?"

"To show you that."

He shoved a paper under Thibadeaux's nose and held a lamp, which he had lighted, so that his friend could read it.

"An apology?" exclaimed Thibadeaux. "What does it mean? Surely that young officer would not dare to

COLD COMFORT.

It Came After the Little Faker Had Got His Punishment.

The east end small boy had sadly misbehaved and was locked in his room. Pretty soon his mother heard him calling.

"Muvver," said the shrill voice, "I'm goin' to bust the window and fall out!"

The mother made no reply. Again the shrill voice arose:

"Muvver, I've found some matches, an' I'm goin' to set fire to the curtains."

The mother remained indifferent. Once more the voice hailed her:

"Muvver, don't you smell sumthin' burnin'?" Even this drew no response.

"If you don't smell nothin'," the voice went on, "it's 'cause I pulled off all th' match heads an' swallowed 'em, an' I'm goin' to die. Do you hear that, muvver; I'm goin' to die."

By this time the mother was thoroughly incensed, and, hastily preparing a cup of mustard and hot water, she hurried upstairs.

"If you've swallowed match heads," she announced, "you'll have to swallow this to keep them company." And then she poured the nauseating stuff down his throat.

A little later the aggravating youngster, sadder, wiser and much humbled, concluded to take the balance of his punishment in silence.

"I didn't really swallow the matches, muvver," he contritely explained.

"I knew you didn't, sonny," replied the mother.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.
